The California Society of Printmakers is soliciting proposals for the 2022 issue, Metamorphosis—Printing Under Pressure. We are interested in how your work as an artist changed because of a deadline, personal crisis or a global pandemic. How did that enable you to express your ideas, discover a new direction and develop a cohesive body of work? We are also interested in your process, including methods and materials.

We would like proposals by print artists such as yourselves and are also seeking recommendations of other artists (including their website) who could contribute to this topic. Your work will be judged on its quality and how well it relates to this year's theme. Articles should be 700-1200 words, with accompanying pictures.

Accepting proposals until August 30, 2021

- how your article will address the theme
- outline or short narrative (about 200 words)
- website address
- five or more jpegs (at least 3 mgb image size) relating to your proposal content & submitted as a separate attachment
- artist bio with contact information

If you are considered, your finished article would be due November 1, 2021
