

Go Camping, Make Art.

1-unit class at SFSU Sierra Nevada Field Campus

ART 470: The Mobile Studio

This 5-day class is an intensive study and exploration of how visual works can respond to and reflect place and landscape. Working observationally and conceptually, projects encourage experimentation and incorporate drawing, watercolor, cyanotype and collage.

Open to artists of all levels, this 1-unit class is a unique opportunity to build an art practice that extends outside of the studio.

Located in the Lakes Basin region, the Sierra Nevada Field Campus is a research and education field station dedicated to building inclusive community around teaching and learning in the natural sciences, land management, art, music, and culture.

Instructors: Susan Belau and Leah Koransky
